The Best Part of Kyoto Doesn't Fit in a Photo

スピーチに対する思い

Through this speech, I wanted to share a side of Kyoto that cannot be captured in photographs. Kyoto is famous for its beautiful temples and traditional culture, but I believe its true charm is in the experiences and connections we make there. My experience at a tea ceremony made me realize that Japanese traditions can bring people together beyond language and nationality. I hope people around the world will not only see Kyoto but experience it, and create memories that cannot be captured by a camera.

The Everyday Kyoto: My Hometown, Enmachi

スピーチに対する思い

When people think of Kyoto, they often imagine famous temples, traditional buildings, and beautiful tourist spots. However, I wanted to show a different side of Kyoto through my hometown, Enmachi. Enmachi is not a famous tourist destination, but it is full of everyday life. There are schools, restaurants, shops, and many local people. I especially wanted to introduce Ramen MUGYU, one of my favorite places. I hope this speech helps people understand that Kyoto is not only about famous tourist spots. The ordinary streets and daily lives of local people are also an important part of Kyoto. I am proud to call Enmachi my hometown.

My proud hometown —I want to try Fushimi sake in seven years

スピーチに対する思い

I want a lot of people to know about the charms of my proud hometown, Fushimi. I thought it would be a great opportunity to apply, being able to introduce this feeling of mine in English, which I'm good at. It would be amazing if more people came to Fushimi after listening to my speech.
